

POVERTY BLAMED ON THE SALOON

Terrible Toll Collected by the Liquor Sellers

THE SHAME OF PENNSYLVANIA

Larger Number of Insane, Criminals and Subjects of Charity Than Any State Where There Are No Saloons, Declares Dr. Murdoch, at Philadelphia Charities Meeting.

Poverty, its costly toll exacted each year from the state, and all its attendant ills were laid at the door of the licensed saloon at a meeting which opened the fifth annual state conference of charities and corrections in Philadelphia this week.

The sessions of the conference were held in the auditorium of the Central Y. M. C. A., 1421 Arch street. Five hundred attended the opening session, which was held jointly with the State Association of Directors of the Poor and Charities, which also opened its annual convention there. Dr. J. M. Murdoch, superintendent of the State Institution for Feeble-Minded, at Pottsville, is president of both conventions.

Search for the Cause. Search for the causes underlying poverty, rather than deciding upon the best methods of alleviating, was the keynote. Housing conditions and their relation to poverty, legislation forbidding child labor and the regulation of occupational diseases were some of the topics discussed by the speakers, who were more concerned about prevention than they were about remedies.

The one underlying cause of poverty, upon which special emphasis was laid, was the licensed saloon. Reference to the liquor traffic and its results was made by J. Denny O'Neill, a commissioner of Pittsburgh. Applause from the men and women gathered from every part of the state to attend the convention, greeted the reference as enthusiastically as though the speaker had addressed a temperance meeting.

Greatest Misery Makers. "We establish boards of health to prevent disease," said Commissioner O'Neill. "We compel vaccination to avoid smallpox; we have milk inspectors to obtain pure milk; we establish sanatoriums to treat consumption, and it is right and proper that we should. Yet we sit supinely down as a state and as individuals and allow the saloons to exist in our midst, and they cause more poverty, more disease, more crime and more human misery than all other causes combined."

Commissioner O'Neill did not confine his attack to generalities. He quoted figures from his own county, Allegheny, showing that the licensed saloons cost the county more than a half million dollars in excess of the amount obtained from license fees last year. He compared conditions in Kansas, a non-license state, quoting figures revealing Pennsylvania's shame in the number of insane, criminals and subjects of charity.

Save the Boys. "Some one asked me recently," he continued, "why I am so opposed to the saloon. There are two main reasons. I have two boys, and my experience has convinced me that saloons cannot exist without boys. The saloon is doomed. It has long been dominant in the politics of our state, but at last public opinion has been aroused and today the saloon is an outlaw and fighting for its existence."

TELEGRAPHIC TICKS.

Uncle Sam's board has decided to hold hearings on the question "What is chocolate?"

Workmen at Belvidere, N. J., unearthed two Indian skeletons so perfect that all bones were in place.

Homier N. Boardman, United States attorney in Oklahoma, was removed. The charges were not announced.

Henry Williams, a negro, was shot dead and two policemen wounded in a pistol battle in Laurinburg, N. C.

To prove suffragists are good mothers Mrs. Wilmer R. Kearns of Rockville Center has started a movement for baby shows throughout Long Island.

A court decided Mrs. Grace Knotts of Cumberland, Md., can run for county treasurer, although women can't vote.

Senator John L. Hara, prohibitionist, of Tennessee declared he had been offered $500 to absent himself from the senate.

GUY RALSTON DIES

He was a Victim of Typhoid Fever—Other Hospital Cases.

Guy Ralston, who was admitted to the Clearfield hospital about six weeks ago suffering from typhoid fever, died of hemorrhages Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Ralston was about 29 years of age and resided at Faunce. He leaves a wife and two children.

He was getting along nicely, it is said, but last week had a relapse and a hemorrhage attacked him, resulting in his death.

Asbury Chase, the attorney who underwent an operation some time ago, is reported at the hospital as getting along very well.

Thursday the physicians picked most of the shot out of the face and arms of John Gallagher, and he is said to be improving nicely.

EVANGELIST HAMILTON CONTINUES TO PLEASE

Meetings in Tabernacle at Glen Richey Successful

Approximately 700 persons were at the Glen Richey tabernacle meetings on Thursday evening. Some of those present drove in from a long distance and all enjoyed a splendid meeting.

Friday night's subject is the "Decisive Crisis," and the evangelist promises that the importance of the meeting will accord with his theme. Sunday afternoon the central part of the tabernacle will be reserved for the young people—the Sunday school scholars.

Last night the speaker's theme was "A Man's Job." Nothing would be more scathing than the evangelist's rebuke of certain modern evils. "Over 100,000 of our brightest boys go down annually into untimely drunkards' graves. These 55 penitentiaries of the land are filled with criminals. Over 75,000 of our girls are each year led into a scarlet life. Sabbath desecration is rife. Every where there are pitfalls of vice and crime. Whenever a proposition is made to remedy these things we say, 'Why, the thing has the authority of the Chief Priests, of Senators, it may be, of judges, county attorneys, mayors or governors.' But we have God on our side, and that means infinite, unbounded power. God never yet led his people to defeat."

"We should expect the rum traffic to fall like grass before the scythe," said the speaker, "or as a tree falls like grass before the lightning from the skies. Before I get through here if I do not clap something on the liquor traffic which you will remember for the next ten years—I have been fighting this traffic for 20 years."

"If all the rivers of the earth were turned through the American saloons they would not wash away the fifth," he declared. "If all the four winds of heaven were to blow through it forever they would not drive away the stench. There was a time when the brainiest men of this country defended or compromised with human slavery, but the gangrenous sore was laid open, and men saw that there was nothing worse on earth, and in the 60's the country was aroused to cut it out of the body politic. One of these days the double two-edged sword is going to cut this evil out of the nation in spite of the chief priests of carnal politics."

That laughter is very near to tears; that humor and pathos are twin sisters, was more than once verified in the Thursday night's meeting. At one point in his discourse the evangelist acted his words by removing his coat and kneeling on the platform.

The rendering of a duet by Prof. Leonard and Rev. O. B. Poulson was a feature of the meeting to which the audience gave close attention and prolonged applause.

RIOTS IMPERIL ALL FOREIGNERS

Students Begin Fighting in Mexico City.

NATIONS TO SEND MARINES

Ten Countries Requested by Diplomats to Send Warships Expected to Compel—Clash With United States Expected—Huerta Government on Verge of Collapse—Many Cannon in Streets.

Mexico City, Oct. 17.—The beginning of the end of the Huerta government and perhaps of all government in the capital of Mexico appeared imminent. Student riots, in which Americans and all other foreigners were denounced, were followed by the announcement by a member of the diplomatic corps that the representatives of ten nations, including Great Britain, France, Spain, Cuba, Norway and Guatemala, decided at a formal conference to ask their respective governments to send warships to Mexico to guard the legations should conditions require it.

They have also asked Huerta for a garrison of 5,000 men for legation guard duty.

Clash With United States Feared. An embroilment with the United States is feared, and the diplomats have recommended a temperate attitude in the matter of Mexico's replies to Washington.

The growing tension and the apprehension of another revolt in the city has resumed something of the foreboding appearance it had last February during the ten days' fighting that ended with the treachery of General Victoriano Huerta and the assassination of President Madero.

Some of the streets are packed with artillery, and the roofs of houses commanding important thoroughfares are occupied by machine guns. Although there has been no open bloodshed, terror reigns none the less. The liberty of no Mexican citizen is assured, and foreigners feel less safe than at any time since the shrapnel flew last February.

Preparation by Huerta. Depending upon the loyalty of the army, Huerta with the powers of an absolute dictator is making desperate preparations against a popular uprising.

Members of Huerta's official family are in constant fear of their lives and arrests of supposed assassins are being made sometimes upon very remote suspicion. A Spanish woman Dolores de los Cobos was taken on the charge of attempting to poison Senator Aldape, minister of the interior. In fact the government appears to be chaotic.

Walter Barrett Calahan, of DuBois, and Miss Mary Gertrude Conley, daughter of M. A. Conley, were married at the home of the bride in Buffalo, N. Y., Wednesday morning. Dennis Joseph Kelley and Miss Mary C. Reddy, both of DuBois, were married Thursday morning in that town. Mr. Kelly is a flagman on the B. & P. railroad.

Edwin Hayes, of New York, and Miss Nell Thompson Dyer, daughter of M. and Mrs. Fred J. Dyer, of Curwensville, were married at the home of the bride in Curwensville Wednesday. The wedding was a brilliant affair and was witnessed by many guests, some of whom were from a distance. Miss Dyer has been prominent in social affairs in Curwensville, and is a most popular young woman.

Paul Gilmore.

Paul Gilmore, as the deceived husband in the "Havoc" gave entire satisfaction to a small-sized audience at the New Opera house last evening. Gilmore portrayed his part in an artistic manner, his humor and wit evoking frequent applause, which awakened the echoes in the deserted parts of the house. As a tragedian Gilmore is a success, but in comedy he would be well to the front with the best of them. His little speech and the two stories of Nat Goodwin which he told between acts were witty and his reference to the vacant seats brought hearty applause. He told of his gratitude to those who were present and was sorry that he couldn't address more citizens of Clearfield. The other members of the company knew their lines very well. The play, well, it taught the moral. A good husband in the hand is worth more than an affinity who is likely to turn out a scoundrel.

ARSENIC KILLED ADMIRAL EATON

State Charges Poison Was Given by His Widow.

Plymouth Mass. Oct. 17. Gentleman the commonwealth expects to show you that John H. G. Eaton met his death by the administration of poison known as white arsenic by his wife as his wife became his widow in the house you visited.

With these words Assistant District Attorney Katzmann opened for the prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Joseph May Eaton for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. Among the witnesses present were Dorothy Eaton the younger daughter of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, who, although a state witness, declared she would help her mother, and Mrs. June Keyes, another daughter, who will be called as a witness.

"To this defendant at the bar the case is of supreme importance," he said, "but to the commonwealth it is of equal importance. When by death the commonwealth lost one of its right arms it was a great loss, and the perpetrator must be sought with diligence. If the defendant be found guilty she must suffer. The commonwealth raises its head above revenge, but it must serve warning to others."

Mrs. Eaton's eyes did not leave Katzmann during his recital of the crime alleged by the commonwealth. She seemed undisturbed, but was a little paler than usual.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Henry H. McCann, fifty-seven, who served twenty-five years as clerk in the old Lee Avenue court, Brooklyn, is dead.

Jeannette A. Eckert, wife of John Eckert, head of the Manhattan Insurance Corporation of John Eckert & Co., is dead in Brooklyn, aged forty-one.

Emma J. Wilkey, forty-seven, widow of Alfred Wilkey, founder of the Brooklyn carriage manufacturing firm bearing his name, is dead at Flatbush.

Charles Robertson, seventy-one, the last charter member of George Huntman post G. A. R., which was organized in June, 1864, died in Bayside.

Joseph J. Burke, one of the most widely known racing and newspaper men in this country and always spoken of by his associates as "Judge" Burke died at Richmond Hill, N. Y.

88 SURVIVORS ON THE KROONLAND

Captain Inch Assorts Men Let Women Off First.

GERMAN TELLS OF ESCAPE.

Captain in a Wireless Report Praises Heroism of Those He Saved—Seydlitz in Philadelphia With Forty Other Survivors Aboard—Inch's Dog Saved by Master.

New York, Oct. 17.—The rescue ship Kroonland brings ninety more Voltur survivors into port, and the hundred and more of the saved already here are still giving up stories of their narrow escapes. One of the most interesting actually told by a survivor of the Voltur was related at the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society by Johann Jaklonecki, a carpenter from a small town in east Germany.

He was on his way to America with his wife and five children. He is separated from all his family. His children, all under twelve years of age, are on the way to Liverpool, and his wife should arrive here within a day or so on the Seydlitz.

Jaklonecki, who speaks German and whose education is far superior to that of his fellow survivors, told his story graphically, but stolidly. As he talked other of the Voltur's passengers stood by and nodded their heads in confirmation of what he said.

Men Stood Aside. Men on the burning Voltur stood by and let the women be saved first, says Captain Francis Inch of the liner in a wireless message. Captain Inch was on the steamship Kroonland. His message follows:

"The fire, which was reported by the chief officer at 6:50 a. m. gained so rapidly that within less than three hours the main saloon, deckhouse and bridge were blazing. Although the fire was fast making its way to the wireless cabin, the two operators stuck to their posts until the magazine of the bridge exploded, carrying away the aerials."

"We were hindered by the stopping of the pumps Thursday morning, when the supply of steam was cut off. Thursday night, after the gale had died down, I put the crew to work making life rafts. I was doubtful as to what Friday would bring forth, but I hoped that the ships which had answered our wireless calls for help would send small boats to our aid."

Stood Back For Women. "I want to say that on Friday morning when the rescue ships began sending boats to our aid the men stood by and let the women go first. They were lowered over the side by means of ropes."

"At 8 a. m. Friday the last passenger was found. I searched the ship and found nobody except the bodies of four sailors who had been killed fighting the flames. With me on the ship were the chief engineer, one Marconi operator, a baker, two seamen and two stewards, not to mention my faithful pet dog Jack. A Kroonland lifeboat was under our stern, so I told the men to get into it, letting themselves down with ropes. I tied a life preserver to my dog, threw him overboard and then let myself down. Jack was picked up and taken on board the Kroonland."

SEYDLITZ ARRIVES.

One of Voltur's Rescue Steamers Reaches Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The North German Lloyd steamship Seydlitz from Bremen for Philadelphia and Baltimore, one of the ships that went to the assistance of the Voltur and which is bringing nearly forty of the rescued steerage passengers to this port, passed in the Delaware capes at 9:30 o'clock.

Will Be Held at St. Louis in 1916, Delegates Decide.

New York, Oct. 17.—Out of honor to Presiding Bishop Daniel L. Tuttle of Missouri, the fiftieth anniversary of whose consecration occurs in 1916, the next triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, to be held in that year, will be called in St. Louis.

This decision was reached by a joint vote of the house of bishops and the house of deputies at the general convention now in session at St. John's.

The Event of the Season.

"Stop Thief," is a farce by Carlyle Moore, produced originally at the Gaiety Theatre, New York City, where it established a laughing record that has not been equaled in twenty years.

Two kleptomaniacs and a real crook start all the fun in "Stop Thief." Can you imagine a funnier situation than this? The kleptomaniacs mislay things and the crook nips them for "keeps."

So perfect is the illusion of "Stop Thief" that half the audience feel unconsciously for their valuables, while the other half think of calling for the police, and when any play of any sort creates that illusion the chief end of dramatic art is attained.

"Stop Thief" will start you sleeping three minutes after the curtain goes up on the first act, and from that time on you will be apologizing to your seat mate for your hilarious behavior.

"Stop Thief" is a wholesale laughing factory. It is the best farce that New York has seen in years. It makes the mourners merry and the merry hilarious. It is the most gigantic laugh in the whole world.

Talk about your detective play! Go and see the fat Rhode Island detective who has his $600 watch pinched before he has shadowed the crooks ten minutes. It's a scream! There ought to be a law enacted to compel all the "Glooms" in the world to go and see "Stop Thief" at the Opera House next Tuesday evening Oct. 21. After that the old gloom would be one big pageant of "Joys." Seats on sale Monday at 9 A. M.

Shot the Limit.

George Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Carter, of McBride street, West Side, returned from the woods last evening with six big, fat squirrels, having shot the limit in a comparatively short time.

WANT FASTER SERVICE ON MADERA LINE

Public Utilities Commission Inspecting the Road

S. L. Toney, of Pittsburgh, E. R. Johnson, of Philadelphia, and A. B. Miller, of Harrisburg, members of the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission, came to Clearfield last evening and this morning, with F. H. McCormick, of Corning, and T. W. Evans, of Syracuse, officials of the New York Central railroad, and President O'Laughlin, of the Clearfield Chamber of Commerce went over the Clearfield Southern road, a New York Central's branch, from Clearfield to Madera.

Complaints have been sent in to the commission regarding slowness of train running on the Madera line, and the commission was asked to investigate the matter and endeavor to induce the company to put more speed on its Madera train.

The regular passenger train was taken off the Madera line some months ago and since the residents

A FAIR, SQUARE FIGHT.

Oscar Mitchell is making a fair,
square fight for election of judge of Clearfield county. He is making a vigorous campaign, but he is doing his electioneering in the open. He is too honorable a man to sneak
about after night or employ workers
to quietly visit voters as if they were

and home races were to have the mission known. Mr. Mitchell and his friends are willing to let every person in the county know where and when they visit the various sections
of the county.

Mr. Mitchell, being a non-partisan
candidate, can approach the voters
of all political parties and request
them to support him. He is not confined to one faction in approaching
voters, but may meet all of them
with confidence that they will treat
him fairly. It is because of this fact that Oscar Mitchell differs from
his opponents, who must first ascertain whether the voters they approach are members of the right faction—whether or not the voters are friends or foes, although members
of the same political party. Neither is it necessary for Mr. Mitchell to promise any faction that, if elected,
he will aid in destroying the other
faction.

Beginning next Tuesday, a number of public meetings will be held
in various places in this county in behalf of Oscar Mitchell's candidacy.
At these meetings the chief issues of the campaign will be discussed by able speakers. None of these speakers will abuse the opposition candidates, neither will the speakers be afraid to speak plainly on the liquor
questions. The liquor dealers know just where Mr. Mitchell stands on the license question, and they know that it would be useless for them to attempt to prevent Mr. Mitchell or the public speakers who are helping him
in his campaign saying just what they think of the evils of intemperance.

It is because Mr. Mitchell is conducting a clean, open and above-board
campaign that he should have the support of every voter who realizes
that the liquor element has for too
many years controlled the politics
in Clearfield county. The temperance sentiment in this county is strong enough to bring about the election of a judge who would strictly
enforce the law against all offenders.
If the friends of temperance shall combine this year and vote for Mr.
Mitchell they will bring about the overthrow of the forces which have
too long dominated the politics of the county and which seek to entrench themselves in power in the county.

The candidacy of Oscar Mitchell
gives the voters of the county the opportunity to elevate to the bench
a man who will bring to the high
office of judge dignity, steady-
ness for the right and a determined
opposition to the workings of wrong
that cannot be successfully assailed.
The best argument in favor of the election of Oscar Mitchell lies in the fact that he is opposed by those who have sought to deprive the people of the right to regulate the liquor license question as their con-
sciences dictate. A vote for Mr.
Mitchell is a vote against defiance
of honest public opinion.

WHY NOT GET IT?

Judging from expressions in the Du Bois newspapers, the stockholders of the DuBois fair association are somewhat pessimistic as to the future financial success of that organization.
The fair this year entailed a loss
upon the association because of the inclemency of the weather, and this fact has had much to do with discouraging to stockholders. The Du-Bois papers plead with the citizens
not to permit the fair to go to some other town in the county.

Clearfield citizens should make a note of these facts. Time was when fairs held in Clearfield attracted
thousands of persons to the county
seat, and the agricultural exhibitions

and home races were to have the mission known. There are now many more people in Clearfield than there were thirty or more years ago, and
many of the recently acquired citizens are willing to do what they can
to build up enterprises which would increase the reputation of the town
as an ideal place for residence or business. If DuBois citizens are seized with cold feet on the fair proposition there are persons in Clearfield who would no doubt be willing to join in financing an association which would hold annual fairs
at the county seat.

It is hoped that before the Clearfield board of education decides, if
it is thinking of deciding the question, to have sex hygiene taught in the public schools of the town the members will study the matter carefully and prayerfully. To require children with unformed minds to take
up a study so fraught with danger,
to the morals of the community as
is sex hygiene would be to incul-

cate in the minds of the children
wrong ideas and defeat the very purpose which the advocate of this study claim will be brought about.

Why the midnight automobile joy
ride?

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who went to bed
with her own hair on her head?

It has been said that where two or more men are gathered it is a mob.
This doesn't apply to the crowds of men who electioneer for candidates
for judge.

What, if any, protection will be placed around that "sanitary" drinking fountain in front of the court house when the cold blasts of winter appear? We suggest a wrapping of red flannel for the poor thing.

Good evening! Can you tell why citizens are permitted to throw waste paper into the streets?

AMUSEMENTS

"The Spendthrift"

At the New Opera House next Monday night theatregoers will have the opportunity of seeing the latest New York dramatic sensation, "The Spendthrift." It is from the pen of Porter Emerson Browne, whose "A Fool There Was" first brought him into prominence as a playwright.

Mr. Browne's play deals with a silly, vain, extravagant woman who is, of course, pretty, kittenish and lovable. Her sole enjoyment in life is culled from society and she believes that her social position should be kept intact at all hazards. She loves her husband in her indolent, light, playful fashion. Is he not the brain power of the machine that grinds out her money? To attempt to argue or reason with such a woman is useless. She is not, however, a bad woman, but thoughtless and selfish. Her extravagances have landed her husband in bankruptcy. The home, the motor, the servants—all must go. To save herself, and as she believes, her husband, Richard, she borrows the necessary sum and lies to him about it. The lie arouses the suspicions of her husband. He forces a scene with the man and his wife, frightened at the upheaval she has brought about, escapes from the house. For five months she learns a hard, bitter lesson. She discovers that there are other ambitions than social honors. In fact, it is a new woman whom the husband finds in an attic room, thoroughly repentant and willing to lead the new and better life which he offers. Throughout the play, there is a pretty little love story between the wife's sister and the husband's brother, to prove the assertion that the home built on the cornerstone of true love and sacrifice will become the home of happiness. Louise Price will appear as the frivolous wife and Louis Lytton as the indulgent husband. Laura Tindle will be the little sister who, early in her career, discovers where true happiness lies. Agnes Wallace Villa will be Aunt Gretchen (Hetty Green dramatized) an old woman "with one foot in the grave and the other in Wall Street." Other characters are in the hands of capable actors. Seat sale opens Saturday.

The Man and the Boy.

A man of high social position was forced to stay over a couple of days in a small country town. Desiring to post some letters and not knowing where to find the postoffice, he said to a small boy gruffly, "Son, I want to go to the postoffice."

"All right, hurry back," said the boy soothingly.—Lippincott's.

EACH MAN GAVE REASONS FOR VOTE

Balloting on Article 1 a Long Proceeding.

SCENE AN IMPRESSIVE ONE.

As Each Senator or Member of Court of Appeals Cast Ballot, His Reason For His Vote Was Made Known and Entered into Record—Cullen Makes Statement.

Albany, Oct. 17.—When the assembly met in the afternoon session the voting on article 1 of the impeachment charges was immediately begun. As each member of the court voted he made a short talk, giving his reasons for casting his ballot, whether it was for or against Mr. Sulzer.

EIGHT IMPEACHMENT CHARGES AGAINST SULZER.

Article 1.—False statement of campaign contributions.
Article 2.—Perjury and specific violation of penal law.
Article 3.—Bribing witnesses before legislative investigators.
Article 4.—Suppressing evidence by deceit and fraud.
Article 5.—Disuading witness from obeying a subpoena.
Article 6.—Misappropriation of campaign checks to his own use.
Article 7.—Corrupt use of his high office in threatening to use his influence to affect political action among public officers.
Article 8.—Using his influence as governor to affect the price of securities on the Stock Exchange.

There was a tremendous crowd in the courtroom during the balloting, and the scene was an impressive one. The clerk of the court read the article on which the first vote was to be taken, and in alphabetical order the votes were recorded.

Chief Justice Cullen gave permission for all who cared to make known their reasons for their votes to do so, and the balloting was a long and tedious procedure.

Informal Votes Not Significant.

Efforts to attach significance to the informal votes were denounced by many of the senators as unjust both to the members of the court itself and to the governor. It was pointed out that not only questions of fact were being discussed and decided in the case of each article, but also the legal admissibility of the article, and that, while a member might vote to admit the article from a legal point of view on his informal vote, he might decide that the governor was guilty under the evidence when it came to his formal vote or vice versa. In other words, until the legal aspects were decided questions of law and of fact would be inextricably involved in the informal vote.

The very fact that a member is privileged to change his vote at the open session of the court was emphasized as indicating the informal ballots should not be fairly considered as accurately showing the final result.

All of the eight articles of impeachment were to be discussed in secret sessions and informal votes taken on them. This was for the purpose of giving each member of the court an opportunity to air his views and permit a mutual exchange of ideas regarding the law and the evidence. Then, having thrashed out these vexatious problems informally, it was believed a great deal of time would be saved.

The eight articles were to be voted on separately in the order in which they came. The names of senators and judges were not to be called in the ordinary manner of taking a roll call, but as the clerk read each name he also was to ask the member if he desired to vote guilty or not guilty, so there could be no mistake in recording the verdict.

Before the high court for the trial met in secret session, Presiding Judge Cullen emphasized to the newspapermen the fact that the present sessions of the court were of the nature of a "private consultation between the members of the court to formulate their views which will determine their final action," and that this action would be taken in public.

"In the Barnard case," he said, "the vote was taken in private consultation. It is not the intention of the court to take the vote in that manner in this case. The vote will be taken in public. What is going on now is simply a private consultation between the members of the court to formulate their views which will determine their final action."

"It is simply the same as in every other court which is composed of more than one person, where the question is of sufficient gravity to consult. This is practically a consultation of the court that is now going on, the same as it would be if it were a case in the court of appeals."

The Barnard case was that of the impeachment in 1899 of Justice George E. Barnard of the supreme court, who was found guilty of corrupt conduct and removed from office.

An extra guard of police was placed before the doors of the court, and those interested in the course of the trial were not allowed to congregate in the corridors as heretofore and were kept at a distance from the courtroom.

POVERTY BLAMED ON THE SALOON

Terrible Toll Collected by the Liquor Sellers

THE SHAME OF PENNSYLVANIA

Larger Number of Insane, Criminals and Subjects of Charity Than Any State Where There Are No Saloons, Declares Dr. Murdoch, at Philadelphia Charities Meeting.

Poverty, its costly toll exacted each year from the state, and all its attendant ills were laid at the door of the licensed saloon at a meeting which opened the fifth annual state conference of charities and corrections in Philadelphia this week.

The sessions of the conference were held in the auditorium of the Central Y. M. C. A., 1421 Arch street. Five hundred attended the opening session, which was held jointly with the State Association of Directors of the Poor and Charities, which also opened its annual convention there. Dr. J. M. Murdoch, superintendent of the State Institution for Feeble-Minded, at Pottsville, is president of both conventions.

Search for the Cause. Search for the causes underlying poverty, rather than deciding upon the best methods of alleviating, was the keynote. Housing conditions and their relation to poverty, legislation forbidding child labor and the regulation of occupational diseases were some of the topics discussed by the speakers, who were more concerned about prevention than they were about remedies.

The one underlying cause of poverty, upon which special emphasis was laid, was the licensed saloon. Reference to the liquor traffic and its results was made by J. Denny O'Neill, a commissioner of Pittsburgh. Applause from the men and women gathered from every part of the state to attend the convention, greeted the reference as enthusiastically as though the speaker had addressed a temperance meeting.

Greatest Misery Makers. "We establish boards of health to prevent disease," said Commissioner O'Neill. "We compel vaccination to avoid smallpox; we have milk inspectors to obtain pure milk; we establish sanatoriums to treat consumption, and it is right and proper that we should. Yet we sit supinely down as a state and as individuals and allow the saloons to exist in our midst, and they cause more poverty, more disease, more crime and more human misery than all other causes combined."

Commissioner O'Neill did not confine his attack to generalities. He quoted figures from his own county, Allegheny, showing that the licensed saloons cost the county more than a half million dollars in excess of the amount obtained from license fees last year. He compared conditions in Kansas, a non-license state, quoting figures revealing Pennsylvania's shame in the number of insane, criminals and subjects of charity.

Save the Boys. "Some one asked me recently," he continued, "why I am so opposed to the saloon. There are two main reasons. I have two boys, and my experience has convinced me that saloons cannot exist without boys. The saloon is doomed. It has long been dominant in the politics of our state, but at last public opinion has been aroused and today the saloon is an outlaw and fighting for its existence."

TELEGRAPHIC TICKS.

Uncle Sam's board has decided to hold hearings on the question "What is chocolate?"

Workmen at Belvidere, N. J., unearthed two Indian skeletons so perfect that all bones were in place.

Homier N. Boardman, United States attorney in Oklahoma, was removed. The charges were not announced.

Henry Williams, a negro, was shot dead and two policemen wounded in a pistol battle in Laurinburg, N. C.

To prove suffragists are good mothers Mrs. Wm. R. Kearns of Rockville Center has started a movement for baby shows throughout Long Island.

A court decided Mrs. Grace Knotts of Cumberland, Md., can run for county treasurer, although women can't vote.

Senator John L. Hara, prohibitionist, of Tennessee declared he had been offered $500 to absent himself from the senate.

GUY RALSTON DIES

He was a Victim of Typhoid Fever—Other Hospital Cases.

Guy Ralston, who was admitted to the Clearfield hospital about six weeks ago suffering from typhoid fever, died of hemorrhages Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Ralston was about 29 years of age and resided at Faunce. He leaves a wife and two children.

He was getting along nicely, it is said, but last week had a relapse and a hemorrhage attacked him, resulting in his death.

Asbury Chase, the attorney who underwent an operation some time ago, is reported at the hospital as getting along very well.

Thursday the physicians picked most of the shot out of the face and arms of John Gallagher, and he is said to be improving nicely.

EVANGELIST HAMILTON CONTINUES TO PLEASE

Meetings in Tabernacle at Glen Richey Successful

Approximately 700 persons were at the Glen Richey tabernacle meetings on Thursday evening. Some of those present drove in from a long distance and all enjoyed a splendid meeting.

Friday night's subject is the "Decisive Crisis," and the evangelist promises that the importance of the meeting will accord with his theme. Sunday afternoon the central part of the tabernacle will be reserved for the young people—the Sunday school scholars.

Last night the speaker's theme was "A Man's Job." Nothing would be more scathing than the evangelist's rebuke of certain modern evils. "Over 100,000 of our brightest boys go down annually into untimely drunkards' graves. These 55 penitentiaries of the land are filled with criminals. Over 75,000 of our girls are each year led into a scarlet life. Sabbath desecration is rife. Every where there are pitfalls of vice and crime. Whenever a proposition is made to remedy these things we say, 'Why, the thing has the authority of the Chief Priests, of Senators, it may be, of judges, county attorneys, mayors or governors.' But we have God on our side, and that means infinite, unbounded power. God never yet led his people to defeat."

"We should expect the rum traffic to fall like grass before the scythe," said the speaker, "or as a tree falls like grass before the lightning from the skies. Before I get through here if I do not clap something on the liquor traffic which you will remember for the next ten years—I have been fighting this traffic for 20 years."

"If all the rivers of the earth were turned through the American saloons they would not wash away the fifth," he declared. "If all the four winds of heaven were to blow through it forever they would not drive away the stench. There was a time when the brainiest men of this country defended or compromised with human slavery, but the gangrenous sore was laid open, and men saw that there was nothing worse on earth, and in the 60's the country was aroused to cut it out of the body politic. One of these days the double two-edged sword is going to cut this evil out of the nation in spite of the chief priests of carnal politics."

That laughter is very near to tears; that humor and pathos are twin sisters, was more than once verified in the Thursday night's meeting. At one point in his discourse the evangelist acted his words by removing his coat and kneeling on the platform.

The rendering of a duet by Prof. Leonard and Rev. O. B. Poulson was a feature of the meeting to which the audience gave close attention and prolonged applause.

RIOTS IMPERIL ALL FOREIGNERS

Students Begin Fighting in Mexico City.

NATIONS TO SEND MARINES

Ten Countries Requested by Diplomats to Send Warships Expected to Compel—Clash With United States Expected—Huerta Government on Verge of Collapse—Many Cannon in Streets.

Mexico City, Oct. 17.—The beginning of the end of the Huerta government and perhaps of all government in the capital of Mexico appeared imminent. Student riots, in which Americans and all other foreigners were denounced, were followed by the announcement by a member of the diplomatic corps that the representatives of ten nations, including Great Britain, France, Spain, Cuba, Norway and Guatemala, decided at a formal conference to ask their respective governments to send warships to Mexico to guard the legations should conditions require it.

They have also asked Huerta for a garrison of 5,000 men for legation guard duty.

Clash With United States Feared. An embroilment with the United States is feared, and the diplomats have recommended a temperate attitude in the matter of Mexico's replies to Washington.

The growing tension and the apprehension of another revolt in the city has resumed something of the foreboding appearance it had last February during the ten days' fighting that ended with the treachery of General Victoriano Huerta and the assassination of President Madero.

Some of the streets are packed with artillery, and the roofs of houses commanding important thoroughfares are occupied by machine guns. Although there has been no open bloodshed, terror reigns none the less. The liberty of no Mexican citizen is assured, and foreigners feel less safe than at any time since the shrapnel flew last February.

Preparation by Huerta. Depending upon the loyalty of the army, Huerta with the powers of an absolute dictator is making desperate preparations against a popular uprising.

Members of Huerta's official family are in constant fear of their lives and arrests of supposed assassins are being made sometimes upon very remote suspicion. A Spanish woman Dolores de los Cobos was taken on the charge of attempting to poison Senor Aldape, minister of the interior. In fact the government appears to be chaotic.

Dennis Joseph Kelley and Miss Mary C. Reddy, both of DuBois, were married Thursday morning in that town. Mr. Kelly is a flagman on the B. & P. railroad.

Edwin Hayes, of New York, and Miss Nell Thompson Dyer, daughter of M. and Mrs. Fred J. Dyer, of Curwensville, were married at the home of the bride in Curwensville Wednesday. The wedding was a brilliant affair and was witnessed by many guests, some of whom were from a distance. Miss Dyer has been prominent in social affairs in Curwensville, and is a most popular young woman.

Paul Gilmore.

Paul Gilmore, as the deceived husband in the "Honor" gave entire satisfaction to a small-sized audience at the New Opera house last evening. Gilmore portrayed his part in an artistic manner, his humor and wit evoking frequent applause, which awakened the echoes in the deserted parts of the house. As a tragedian Gilmore is a success, but in comedy he would be well to the front with the best of them. His little speech and the two stories of Nat Goodwin which he told between acts were witty and his reference to the vacant seats brought hearty applause. He told of his gratitude to those who were present and was sorry that he couldn't address more citizens of Clearfield. The other members of the company knew their lines very well. The play, well, it taught the moral. A good husband in the hand is worth more than an affinity who is likely to turn out a scoundrel.

State Charges Poison Was Given by His Widow.

Plymouth Mass. Oct. 17. Gentleman the commonwealth expects to show you that John H. G. Eaton met his death by the administration of poison known as white arsenic by his wife as his wife became his widow in the house you visited.

With these words Assistant District Attorney Katzmann opened for the prosecution in the trial of Mrs. Joseph May Eaton for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. Among the witnesses present were Dorothy Eaton the younger daughter of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, who, although a state witness, declared she would help her mother, and Mrs. June Keyes, another daughter, who will be called as a witness.

Katzmann declared that there was little need to call attention to the importance of this case to those concerned.

"To this defendant at the bar the case is of supreme importance," he said, "but to the commonwealth it is of equal importance. When by death the commonwealth lost one of its right arms it was a great loss, and the perpetrator must be sought with diligence. If the defendant be found guilty she must suffer. The commonwealth raises its head above revenge, but it must serve warning to others."

Mrs. Eaton's eyes did not leave Katzmann during his recital of the crime alleged by the commonwealth. She seemed undisturbed, but was a little paler than usual.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Henry H. McCann, fifty-seven, who served twenty-five years as clerk in the old Lee Avenue court, Brooklyn, is dead.

Jeannette A. Eckert, wife of John Eckert, head of the Manhattan Insurance Corporation of John Eckert & Co., is dead in Brooklyn, aged forty-one.

Emma J. Wilkey, forty-seven, widow of Alfred Wilkey, founder of the Brooklyn carriage manufacturing firm bearing his name, is dead at Flatbush.

Charles Robertson, seventy-one, the last charter member of George Huntman post G. A. R., which was organized in June, 1864, died in Bayside.

88 SURVIVORS ON THE KROONLAND

Captain Inch Assorts Men Let Women Off First.

GERMAN TELLS OF ESCAPE.

Captain in a Wireless Report Praises Heroism of Those He Saved—Seydlitz in Philadelphia With Forty Other Survivors Aboard—Inch's Dog Saved by Master.

New York, Oct. 17.—The rescue ship Kroonland brings ninety more Voltur survivors into port, and the hundred and more of the saved already here are still giving up stories of their narrow escapes. One of the most interesting actually told by a survivor of the Voltur was related at the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid society by Johann Jaklonecki, a carpenter from a small town in east Germany.

He was on his way to America with his wife and five children. He is separated from all his family. His children, all under twelve years of age, are on the way to Liverpool, and his wife should arrive here within a day or so on the Seydlitz.

Jaklonecki, who speaks German and whose education is far superior to that of his fellow survivors, told his story graphically, but stolidly. As he talked other of the Voltur's passengers stood by and nodded their heads in confirmation of what he said.

Men Stood Aside.

Men on the burning Voltur stood by and let the women be saved first, says Captain Francis Inch of the liner in a wireless message. Captain Inch was on the steamship Kroonland. His message follows:

"The fire, which was reported by the chief officer at 6:50 a. m. gained so rapidly that within less than three hours the main saloon, deckhouse and bridge were blazing. Although the fire was fast making its way to the wireless cabin, the two operators stuck to their posts until the magazine of the bridge exploded, carrying away the aerials."

"We were hindered by the stopping of the pumps Thursday morning, when the supply of steam was cut off. Thursday night, after the gale had died down, I put the crew to work making life rafts. I was doubtful as to what Friday would bring forth, but I hoped that the ships which had answered our wireless calls for help would send small boats to our aid."

Stood Back For Women.

"I want to say that on Friday morning when the rescue ships began sending boats to our aid the men stood by and let the women go first. They were lowered over the side by means of ropes."

"At 8 a. m. Friday the last passenger was found. I searched the ship and found nobody except the bodies of four sailors who had been killed fighting the flames. With me on the ship were the chief engineer, one Marconi operator, a baker, two seamen and two stewards, not to mention my faithful pet dog Jack. A Kroonland lifeboat was under our stern, so I told the men to get into it, letting themselves down with ropes. I tied a life preserver to my dog, threw him overboard and then let myself down. Jack was picked up and taken on board the Kroonland."

SEYDLITZ ARRIVES.

One of Voltur's Rescue Steamers Reaches Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—The North German Lloyd steamship Seydlitz from Bremen for Philadelphia and Baltimore, one of the ships that went to the assistance of the Voltur and which is bringing nearly forty of the rescued steerage passengers to this port, passed in the Delaware capes at 9:30 o'clock.

Notice to Children.

The Junior Chautauqua club will hold its first meeting in the West Side school building on Saturday morning, Oct. 18, at 10 o'clock. All the children who attended the Junior Chautauqua meetings during the summer are invited to be present.

NEXT EPISCOPAL CONVENTION

Will Be Held at St. Louis in 1916, Delegates Decide.

New York, Oct. 17.—Out of honor to Presiding Bishop Daniel L. Tuttle of Missouri, the fiftieth anniversary of whose consecration occurs in 1916, the next triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, will be held in that year, will be called in St. Louis.

This decision was reached by a joint vote of the house of bishops and the house of deputies at the general convention now in session at St. John's.

Boy Killed by Auto.

Charles Dorwart, aged 6, was run over and killed by an automobile at Prescotville, near Reynoldsville, Thursday afternoon. The automobile was occupied by parties from DuBois.

Patton Trouble Settled.

The trouble at his mines at Patton has been adjusted and there will be no strike. All of the miners have joined the union.

Entertained at Bridge.

Miss Edith Patton will entertain at bridge this evening at her home in Curwensville. The guests will be: Misses Lill Lee, Adelaide Krutson, Chesterdown, Md., Margaret Patterson, Pottsville, Charlotte Smith, Helen Morgan; Mr. and Mrs. William Bigler, William Powell, "Bud" Moore, Samuel Stewart, Leaver Stewart, and William Wrigley.

The Event of the Season.

"Stop Thief," is a farce by Carlyle Moore, produced originally at the Gaiety Theatre, New York City, where it established a laughing record that has not been equaled in twenty years.

Two kleptomaniacs and a real crook start all the fun in "Stop Thief." Can you imagine a funnier situation than this? The kleptomaniacs mislay things and the crook nips them for "keeps."

So perfect is the illusion of "Stop Thief" that half the audience feel unconsciously for their valuables, while the other half think of calling for the police, and when any play of any sort creates that illusion the chief end of dramatic art is attained.

"Stop Thief" will start you sleeping three minutes after the curtain goes up on the first act, and from that time on you will be apologizing to your seat mate for your hilarious behavior.

"Stop Thief" is a wholesale laughing factory. It is the best farce that New York has seen in years. It makes the mourners merry and the merry hilarious. It is the most gigantic laugh in the whole world.

Talk about your detective play! Go and see the fat Rhode Island detective who has his $600 watch pinched before he has shadowed the crooks ten minutes. It's a scream! There ought to be a law enacted to compel all the "Glooms" in the world to go and see "Stop Thief" at the Opera House next Tuesday evening Oct. 21. After that the old gloom would be one big pageant of "Joys." Seats on sale Monday at 9 A. M.

Shot the Limit.

George Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Carter, of McBride street, West Side, returned from the woods last evening with six big, fat squirrels, having shot the limit in a comparatively short time.

Public Utilities Commission Inspecting the Road

S. L. Toney, of Pittsburgh, E. R. Johnson, of Philadelphia, and A. B. Miller, of Harrisburg, members of the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission, came to Clearfield last evening and this morning, with F. H. McCormick, of Corning, and T. W. Evans, of Syracuse, officials of the New York Central railroad, and President O'Laughlin, of the Clearfield Chamber of Commerce went over the Clearfield Southern road, a New York Central's branch, from Clearfield to Madera.

Complaints have been sent in to the commission regarding slowness of train running on the Madera line, and the commission was asked to investigate the matter and endeavor to induce the company to put more speed on its Madera train.

The regular passenger train was taken off the Madera line some months ago and since the residents

For Judge of Clearfield County.
Oscar Mitchell, of Clearfield.

Platform.

I am opposed to wholesale licenses and can see no reason for granting same in Clearfield county. If elected I will grant no retail licenses where the will of the people is clearly expressed against it, nor where the applicant does not come within the Brooks High License law, and can show absolute necessity.

Will enforce rules prohibiting the sale of liquor by the bottle and treat-

A FAIR, SQUARE FIGHT.

Oscar Mitchell is making a fair,
square fight for election of judge of Clearfield county. He is making a vigorous campaign, but he is doing
his electioneering in the open. He
is too honorable a man to sneak
about after night or employ workers

and home races were to have the same known. Mr. Mitchell and his friends are willing to let every person in the county know where and
when they visit the various sections
of the county.

Mr. Mitchell, being a non-partisan
candidate, can approach the voters
of all political parties and request
them to support him. He is not confined to one faction in approaching
voters, but may meet all of them
with confidence that they will treat
him fairly. It is because of this fact that Oscar Mitchell differs from
his opponents, who must first ascertain whether the voters they approach are members of the right faction—whether or not the voters are
friends or foes, although members
of the same political party. Neither
is it necessary for Mr. Mitchell to
promise any faction that, if elected,
he will aid in destroying the other
faction.

Beginning next Tuesday, a number of public meetings will be held
in various places in this county in behalf of Oscar Mitchell's candidacy.
At these meetings the chief issues of
the campaign will be discussed by
able speakers. None of these speakers will abuse the opposition candidates, neither will the speakers be afraid to speak plainly on the liquor
questions. The liquor dealers know
just where Mr. Mitchell stands on the license question, and they know that it would be useless for them to attempt to prevent Mr. Mitchell or the
public speakers who are helping him
in his campaign saying just what
they think of the evils of intemper-
ance.

It is because Mr. Mitchell is conducting a clean, open and above-board
campaign that he should have the support of every voter who realizes
that the liquor element has for too
many years controlled the politics
in Clearfield county. The temperance sentiment in this county is
strong enough to bring about the election of a judge who would strictly
enforce the law against all offenders.
If the friends of temperance shall
combine this year and vote for Mr.
Mitchell they will bring about the
overthrow of the forces which have
too long dominated the politics of
the county and which seek to en-
trench themselves in power in the county.

The candidacy of Oscar Mitchell
gives the voters of the county the
opportunity to elevate to the bench
a man who will bring to the high
office of judge dignity, steady-
ness for the right and a determined
opposition to the workings of wrong
that cannot be successfully assailed.
The best argument in favor of the election of Oscar Mitchell lies in
the fact that he is opposed by those
who have sought to deprive the
people of the right to regulate the
liquor license question as their con-
sciences dictate. A vote for Mr.
Mitchell is a vote against defiance
of honest public opinion.

WHY NOT GET IT?

Judging from expressions in the Du Bois newspapers, the stockholders of
the DuBois fair association are some-
what pessimistic as to the future financial success of that organization.
The fair this year entailed a loss
upon the association because of the
inclemency of the weather, and this
fact has had much to do with discouraging to stockholders. The Du-Bois papers plead with the citizens
not to permit the fair to go to some
other town in the county.

Clearfield citizens should make a note of these facts. Time was when fairs held in Clearfield attracted
thousands of persons to the county
seat, and the agricultural exhibitions

and home races were to have the same known. There are now many more people in Clearfield than there
were thirty or more years ago, and
many of the recently acquired citizens are willing to do what they can
to build up enterprises which would
increase the reputation of the town
as an ideal place for residence or business. If DuBois citizens are seized with cold feet on the fair proposition there are persons in Clear-
field who would no doubt be willing to join in financing an association which would hold annual fairs
at the county seat.

It is hoped that before the Clear-
field board of education decides, if
it is thinking of deciding the question, to have sex hygiene taught in
the public schools of the town the
members will study the matter carefully and prayerfully. To require
children with unformed minds to take
up a study so fraught with danger,
to the morals of the community as
is sex hygiene would be to incul-

cate in the minds of the children
wrong ideas and defeat the very purpose which the advocate of this study claim will be brought about.

Why the midnight automobile joy
ride?

What has become of the old-
fashioned woman who went to bed
with her own hair on her head?

It has been said that where two or
more men are gathered it is a mob.
This doesn't apply to the crowds of
men who electioneer for candidates
for judge.

What, if any, protection will be placed around that "sanitary" drinking fountain in front of the court house when the cold blasts of winter appear? We suggest a wrapping of red flannel for the poor thing.

Good evening! Can you tell why
citizens are permitted to throw
waste paper into the streets?

AMUSEMENTS

"The Spendthrift"

At the New Opera House next Monday night theatregoers will have the opportunity of seeing the latest New York dramatic sensation, "The Spendthrift." It is from the pen of Porter Emerson Browne, whose "A Fool There Was" first brought him into prominence as a playwright.

Mr. Browne's play deals with a silly, vain, extravagant woman who is, of course, pretty, kittenish and lovable. Her sole enjoyment in life is culled from society and she believes that her social position should be kept intact at all hazards. She loves her husband in her indolent, light, playful fashion. Is he not the brain power of the machine that grinds out her money? To attempt to argue or reason with such a woman is useless. She is not, however, a bad woman, but thoughtless and selfish. Her extravagances have landed her husband in bankruptcy. The home, the motor, the servants—all must go. To save herself, and as she believes, her husband, Richard, she borrows the necessary sum and lies to him about it. The lie arouses the suspicions of her husband. He forces a scene with the man and his wife, frightened at the upheaval she has brought about, escapes from the house. For five months she learns a hard, bitter lesson. She discovers that there are other ambitions than social honors. In fact, it is a new woman whom the husband finds in an attic room, thoroughly repentant and willing to lead the new and better life which he offers. Throughout the play, there is a pretty little love story between the wife's sister and the husband's brother, to prove the assertion that the home built on the cornerstone of true love and sacrifice will become the home of happiness. Louise Price will appear as the frivolous wife and Louis Lytton as the indulgent husband. Laura Tindle will be the little sister who, early in her career, discovers where true happiness lies. Agnes Wallace Villa will be Aunt Gretchen (Hetty Green dramatized) an old woman "with one foot in the grave and the other in Wall Street." Other characters are in the hands of capable actors. Seat sale opens Saturday.

A. W. Leonardson Co., Market St., Clearfield

The Man and the Boy.

A man of high social position was forced to stay over a couple of days in a small country town. Desiring to post some letters and not knowing where to find the postoffice, he said to a small boy gruffly, "Son, I want to go to the postoffice."

"All right, hurry back," said the boy soothingly.—Lippincott's.

Balloting on Article 1 a Long Proceeding.

SCENE AN IMPRESSIVE ONE.

As Each Senator or Member of Court of Appeals Cast Ballot, His Reason For His Vote Was Made Known and Entered into Record—Cullen Makes Statement.

Albany, Oct. 17.—When the assembly met in the afternoon session the voting on article 1 of the impeachment charges was immediately begun. As each member of the court voted he made a short talk, giving his reasons for casting his ballot, whether it was for or against Mr. Sulzer.

EIGHT IMPEACHMENT CHARGES AGAINST SULZER.

Article 1.—False statement of campaign contributions.
Article 2.—Perjury and specific violation of penal law.
Article 3.—Bribing witnesses before legislative investigators.
Article 4.—Suppressing evidence by deceit and fraud.
Article 5.—Disuading witness from obeying a subpoena.
Article 6.—Misappropriation of campaign checks to his own use.
Article 7.—Corrupt use of his high office in threatening to use his influence to affect political action among public officers.
Article 8.—Using his influence as governor to affect the price of securities on the Stock Exchange.

There was a tremendous crowd in the courtroom during the balloting, and the scene was an impressive one. The clerk of the court read the article on which the first vote was to be taken, and in alphabetical order the votes were recorded.

Chief Justice Cullen gave permission for all who cared to make known their reasons for their votes to do so, and the balloting was a long and tedious procedure.

Informal Votes Not Significant.

Efforts to attach significance to the informal votes were denounced by many of the senators as unjust both to the members of the court itself and to the governor. It was pointed out that not only questions of fact were being discussed and decided in the case of each article, but also the legal admissibility of the article, and that, while a member might vote to admit the article from a legal point of view on his informal vote, he might decide that the governor was guilty under the evidence when it came to his formal vote or vice versa. In other words, until the legal aspects were decided questions of law and of fact would be inextricably involved in the informal vote.

The very fact that a member is privileged to change his vote at the open session of the court was emphasized as indicating the informal ballots should not be fairly considered as accurately showing the final result.

All of the eight articles of impeachment were to be discussed in secret sessions and informal votes taken on them. This was for the purpose of giving each member of the court an opportunity to air his views and permit a mutual exchange of ideas regarding the law and the evidence. Then, having thrashed out these vexatious problems informally, it was believed a great deal of time would be saved.

The eight articles were to be voted on separately in the order in which they came. The names of senators and judges were not to be called in the ordinary manner of taking a roll call, but as the clerk read each name he also was to ask the member if he desired to vote guilty or not guilty, so there could be no mistake in recording the verdict.

Before the high court for the trial met in secret session, Presiding Judge Cullen emphasized to the newspapermen the fact that the present sessions of the court were of the nature of a "private consultation between the members of the court to formulate their views which will determine their final action," and that this action would be taken in public.

"In the Barnard case," he said, "the vote was taken in private consultation. It is not the intention of the court to take the vote in that manner in this case. The vote will be taken in public. What is going on now is simply a private consultation between the members of the court to formulate their views which will determine their final action."

"It is simply the same as in every other court which is composed of more than one person, where the question is of sufficient gravity to consult. This is practically a consultation of the court that is now going on, the same as it would be if it were a case in the court of appeals."

The Barnard case was that of the impeachment in 1899 of Justice George E. Barnard of the supreme court, who was found guilty of corrupt conduct and removed from office.

An extra guard of police was placed before the doors of the court, and those interested in the course of the trial were not allowed to congregate in the corridors as heretofore and were kept at a distance from the courtroom.

Where Ma Was Strict.

Little Girl—My mamma is awful strict. Is yours? Little Boy—Orful. Little Girl—But she lets you go anywhere you want to and— Little Boy—Oh, she ain't strict with me. Little Girl—Then who is she strict with? Little Boy—Pa.

In This Rapid Age.

"Mamma's good little boy want a slice of bread and"—
"Oh, mother, cut out that sort of thing. I'm nearly four years old."—
